

As your Packaging Partner, we're writing to update you on a recent market announcement impacting the prices of corrugated products.

On March 20, Fastmarkets Pulp and Paper announced a market-wide increase of $40 per ton, impacting corrugated materials. This follows an earlier $20 per ton decrease in February, resulting in an overall net increase of $20 per ton.

As a result, starting May 1, 2026, prices for all BOX Partners corrugated products will increase by an average of 3% to 4%.

Many global and domestic factors are creating a fluid, rapidly changing business environment that could continue to impact the prices of all packaging materials in the near term. Thank you for your continued partnership. We're committed to meeting these challenges together.

If you have any questions about the information shared here, please don't hesitate to contact your account manager.

Thank you for being a Partner.